HOPE, HAPPINESS AND HEART: LIVE HAPPY'S MISSION

To the Beautiful Village of Assagao

For 10 years, our NGO has been rooted in love, service, and community. At its heart is a powerful feminine force—our teachers, coordinators, co-founders, and volunteers—who care deeply for our children and help our mission grow with grace.

Their dedication has shaped not just young minds but the spirit of our work. Through education and example, we teach our children to protect, preserve, and restore both nature and society.

To all our sponsors and supporters—thank you for walking with us.

Now, we call on you, the people of Assagao:
This is your village. These are your children. Join us.
Let's grow this movement—together.

Let Assagao lead with love and unity.

BRIDGING LEARNING AND SOCIAL COMMITMENT: THE "OPEN YOUR EYES" PROJECT

The Service-Learning (ApS) methodology enables the combination of student learning with social commitment.

This approach allows students to learn while performing community service. "Open Your Eyes" is a Service-Learning project focused on raising awareness and preventing gender-based violence, LIVE HAPPY NGO will collaborate with Burgos University (Spain) and the Association for Assistance to Victims of Sexual Assault and Domestic Violence (ADAVAS) in Burgos, Spain.

BEATRIZ CONTRERAS MILLER
CO-FOUNDER

Gender-based violence is one of the clearest manifestations of inequality, constituting a severe violation of human rights. Gender-based violence encompasses any act aimed at harming a person because of their gender. It can manifest in various forms (sexual, physical, psychological, domestic, economic...) and its consequences are devastating.

The "Open Your Eyes" ApS project aims to involve undergraduate students from the Faculty of Education in the training activities. Student's in Spain and India will design pedagogical materials and resources to contribute to gender violence awareness. This project builds on previous experience from the course "Television, Audiovisual Media, and Education" (3rd Year, Pedagogy Degree), where audiovisual content was created to address issues related to gender equality and violence prevention.

To execute this ApS project, initial gender violence awareness workshops will be conducted by an expert for different groups of participating students from various courses in Spain and India. Following this initial intervention, students will work online with India to design and create technological and/or audiovisual resources. These resources will later be used by LIVE HAPPY in their training workshops for school students in GOA.

Throughout the material and resource creation process, teachers and students will maintain contact with us to know more about this experience. The design of resources will vary depending on the course and the group of students involved. This ApS project will help develop the competencies of the involved degrees and courses in a cross-disciplinary manner.

COLLABORATING WITH THE "OPEN YOUR EYES" PROJECT SEVERAL SIGNIFICANT BENEFITS FOR LIVE HAPPY NGO

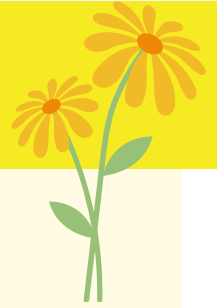

1. Enhanced Awareness and Outreach: The materials and resources developed by students will amplify efforts in raising awareness about gender-based violence, reaching a broader audience.
2. Innovative Educational Tools: The project will produce innovative technological and audiovisual tools that can be used in workshops and training sessions, enhancing the educational impact
3. Increased Community Engagement: By involving students and educators strengthens its ties with the academic community, fostering greater community engagement and support for its mission.
4. Resource Repository: The creation of a web repository will provide a lasting resource for ongoing education and awareness efforts, accessible to educators, students, and the public
5. Professional Development: The collaboration provides opportunities for OUR staff to engage in professional development through interaction with academic professionals and students, potentially gaining new insights and approaches
6. Event Exposure: Hosting the "Open Your Eyes" Gender Violence Awareness Day will bring significant visibility to LIVE HAPPY's work, attracting media attention and potential new supporters

Through this collaboration, LIVE HAPPY NGO can leverage the creativity, energy, and expertise of students and educators to enhance its mission of combating gender-based violence and supporting victims.

COORDINATOR

NAMASHRI PARAB
PROJECT COORDINATOR

It's been just over two months since I became a part of the Live Happy NGO family, and the journey so far has been truly transformative.

Coming from a background in chemistry and science, stepping into the world of education and social impact has been a completely new and enriching experience.

Each day brings fresh learning and more importantly, moments of joy and wonder, thanks to the incredible children we work with.

We currently have 25 children in our NGO, and we are working together with our dedicated teachers and volunteers to support their education and overall well-being. I love being around the kids, their curious minds and naughty laughs take me back to my own childhood and remind me to always keep that little child alive in me.

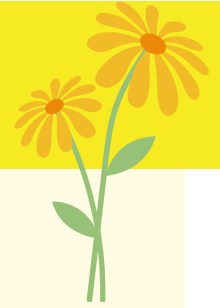

In this short span, I've had the chance to explore everything from project planning, sponsorships, and social media to evaluating syllabus and mental health support. I aim to honour what has been built while also bringing in fresh, meaningful ideas that help us grow stronger as a team and community.

I'm proud to be surrounded by passionate teachers, committed volunteers and the founders mentoring me continuously. Together, we're building not just brighter futures for the children of Goa, but a space filled with hope, happiness, and heart.

To everyone who supports us, thank you. Every effort, no matter how small, helps us spread the happiness.

TEACHERS

What do you like about Live Happy?

Actually everything, I like how we can reach out to children who cannot afford to do stuff which we do here. We do so many activities which are so fruitful and encouraging to them. Children also get to celebrate all kinds of festivals no matter their religion. Live Happy is beyond any caste, creed or religion. I really love this about it.

What do you like about your work?

Very much. I don't consider it as work, it's more as my happy time. Kids make you happy. Their cute faces, their sweet questions make you forget the world.

Why did you start working at Live Happy?

I was stressed sitting at home doing nothing. I got an opportunity to teach the children here in 2022 and that did wonders to me. I found myself being understanding and more patient over the years here.

What is a special moment that you'd like to share?

I like our Christmas programs. I love how it brings glow and happiness to our children. The anticipation of getting their gifts, more people coming during that time, and how our kids mix without having any inferiority complexes.

VOLUNTEERS

Since September, I've been working at Live Happy, and it has been a truly special time in my life. I've really enjoyed being there—playing with the kids, helping them with their studies, and watching them grow has brought me so much joy. It's amazing to see how they develop, gain confidence, and open up over time.

This experience has also helped me grow personally. I've learned a lot about patience, empathy, and how meaningful it is to be part of a child's learning journey. The bonds I've built and the memories I've made will stay forever. This time at Live Happy is something I'll always look back on with happiness and gratitude.

-SOPHIA

The past nine months here at the Live Happy NGO have been incredible.

I've learned so much about Indian and Goan culture through the children and the teachers. They welcomed me warmly, and I now truly feel like part of the team.

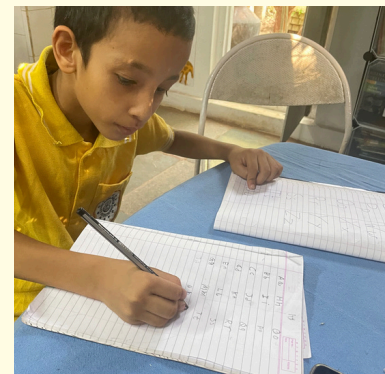

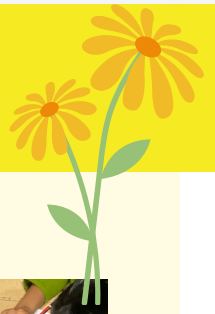

At first, the kids were very shy and sweet, but they quickly opened up, trying to tell me everything they could with their limited English—and even started to get a little cheeky! We learned, played, crafted, and grew together. At no point did I feel unwelcome or out of place.

Together, we did our best to give as much as we could to our kids, who will forever hold a special place in my heart.

JANUARY

We welcomed the new year by picking up right where we left off—with dedication, learning, and joyful activities. Our regular academic learning classes continued with full energy, ensuring that the children stayed on track with their studies after the holiday break.

In addition to academics, January brought some special highlights. A group of seven students from DMC visited us and led an engaging session on environmental awareness. The children learned about the importance of caring for nature and how small actions can make a big difference.

We also added a splash of color to our surroundings by painting the pillars of our NGO, making our space more vibrant and visible

ACADEMIC LEARNING CLASSES AT LIVE HAPPY

At Live Happy NGO, our academic learning classes have played a key role in supporting the educational journey of our children.

These sessions were thoughtfully designed to provide the right kind of help to each age group—tutors worked closely with the older students, offering in-depth guidance on more complex subjects, while volunteers focused on helping the younger children strengthen their basic skills and school lessons.

Each tuition hour was carefully planned, with time set aside for clear explanations, revision, and regular tests. This structured approach helped ensure that the children truly understood and remembered what they were learning.

More than just academics, these classes were about creating a positive, encouraging environment where children could grow in confidence and develop a genuine love for learning. With a mix of dedicated teaching and caring support, our academic learning sessions continue to make a lasting impact—preparing our children not just for exams, but for a brighter future.

BOOKWORM

Bookworm has been a part of our Live Happy family for years, and from January to March this year, they once again filled our space with the magic of stories and imagination. Their visits have become a cherished tradition, and the children were so excited to welcome them back for another season of inspiring reading sessions.

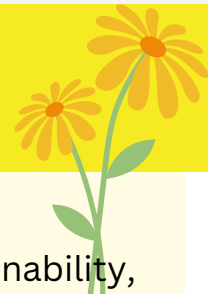

With warmth, creativity, and lots of enthusiasm, the Bookworm team brought stories to life, sparking imagination and curiosity in every child. Whether it was through fun read-alouds, engaging crafts, or simple moments of quiet listening, they created a special space where books became magical.

We're so grateful for the time and energy they shared with us. These months were filled with joy, learning, and a growing love for reading—memories we'll hold onto for a long time. Thank you, Bookworm, for planting the seeds of imagination and helping our little readers grow!

ENVIRONMENTAL AWARENESS SESSION

As part of our ongoing efforts to teach children the importance of sustainability, we recently welcomed seven students from DMC for a special environmental awareness session.

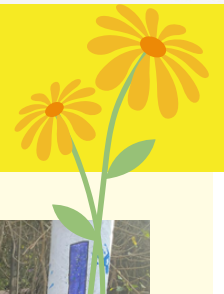

They spoke to the kids about waste management, the importance of recycling, and how even small actions can make a big difference for our planet.

The session was both fun and informative, and it sparked a lot of thoughtful questions from the children. We're proud to be raising a generation that understands the value of caring for the environment!

PILLAR DECORATION

To bring more visibility to Live Happy NGO and spread some joy in the neighborhood, we gave the plain pillars outside our space a colorful makeover. With four pillars standing proudly by the road, we saw a great opportunity—not just to make our name known, but to involve our children in something creative.

Three of the pillars now spell out Live Happy NGO, and the fourth proudly displays suns from our logo. The outlines of the letters and the suns were carefully drawn by our volunteers.

Then, the older children took charge of adding color and creativity to the letters, giving each one a unique and vibrant look.

For the younger kids, we turned the painting into a fun and messy celebration of who we are: a children's NGO. Their colorful handprints now cover the pillars, making each one a joyful canvas of little hands and big smiles.

After the pillars were installed, it was heartwarming to watch the younger children run around them, proudly pointing out their handprint.

FEBRUARY

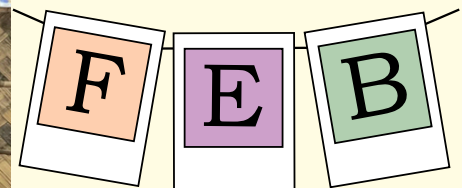

With exams approaching in March, February was a month of focus and balance at Happy Home. While we dedicated more time to studies, we made sure not to let our activities fade away.

This month, we celebrated Science Month, with engaging science-themed activities every Monday that sparked curiosity and learning. Balancing the academic with the active, we also enjoyed a fun-filled gymnastics session, offering a refreshing break from our studies.

A sweet surprise came our way thanks to Angad from Ondo Ice Cream, who generously donated ice cream to all the children—a definite highlight and a treat everyone enjoyed.

February reminded us that even during busy times, learning and joy can go hand in hand.

SCIENCE MONTH

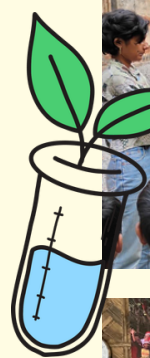

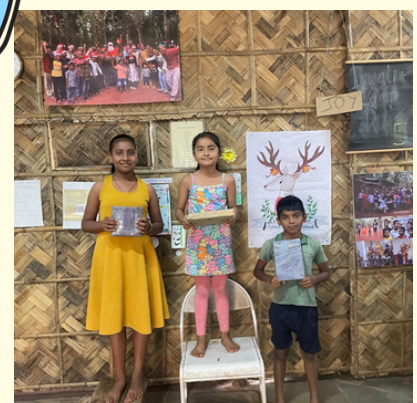

February was Science Month at Live Happy, and each monday brought exciting learning opportunities for our children.

On the 3rd, we started by dividing the kids into age groups to match the activities to their level. The older children learned about atoms—what they are made of and why they matter—and then built their own models to better understand the structure. The younger group explored the different states of matter with a fun and messy experiment using cornstarch and water, discovering how the mixture could feel solid when pressed and liquid when relaxed.

On the 10th, the focus shifted to creativity and presentation. The older kids participated in a science competition, proudly showcasing self-made experiments they had prepared with enthusiasm.

At the same time, the younger children took part in a drawing competition where they illustrated animals in their natural environments, combining their knowledge of nature with artistic expression.

Finally, on the 17th, we welcomed a guest speaker who introduced the topic of volcanoes through an engaging story. To make it even more memorable, we had prepared a model volcano ahead of time and demonstrated an eruption using baking soda and vinegar. The reaction amazed the children, and the bubbling "lava" sparked a wave of curious questions about how real volcanoes work.

GYMNASTICS SESSION

This month, our children got to experience something completely new—a gymnastics session led by our two amazing volunteers, both of whom practiced gymnastics back in Germany.

For most of the kids, it was their very first time trying these kinds of body movements, so we started with the basics. The session included front rolls, candlesticks, and even some headstand practice. A few of the boys were especially enthusiastic and gave handstands a go—with big smiles and lots of determination!

It was a joyful and energetic session full of laughter, excitement, and new challenges.

ICE CREAM DONATION

This month, we were treated to a truly heartwarming gesture from Ondo Ice Cream. Coming all the way from Mandrem, they arrived with a special delivery—handcrafted gelato made with love—just for the children of Live Happy NGO.

The excitement was impossible to miss as the kids gathered around, eyes wide with joy and anticipation. With every scoop served, smiles grew bigger and hearts grew warmer. It wasn't just about the ice cream—it was about the kindness and care behind it.

Made from quality ingredients and full of flavour, the gelato was a huge hit! The children absolutely loved every bite, many of them tasting real gelato for the very first time. It was a treat they won't forget.

We are incredibly grateful to Angad, Malika, and the entire Ondo team for their generosity and the effort they made to bring this joy to our doorstep. Acts of kindness like these remind us how powerful community support can be in creating lasting, joyful memories for our children.

Thank you, Ondo Ice Cream, for sharing your sweetness with us!

MARCH

March was a month of focus at Live Happy NGO, with final exams just around the corner. Our main priority was supporting the children in their studies. The teachers concentrated on preparing the older students, while our dedicated volunteers worked closely with the younger ones, where exams are less intense but learning is just as important.

We were especially grateful for the support of three Pallottine sisters—Ansumala, Pinki, and Ajita—who spent the entire month teaching our kindergarten and first-grade children. Their presence allowed us to focus more closely on the students, working in small groups of 3–4 children per teacher.

Even with our academic focus, we made sure not to miss the joy of Holi. Though simple, our celebration was colorful and fun.

When the exams were finally over, we wrapped up the month with a full day of activities, including our very own Mini Game Olympics—a well deserved reward after weeks of hard work!

VOLUNTEERS FROM PALLOTINE SISTERS INSTITUTE

In May, we got help from three sisters from the Palatine Institute: Ansumala, Pinky, and Ajita. During the important time of exam season, we were beyond grateful for their support. They studied, played, and crafted with the kids and were a great help overall.

This is a reminder that everyone living nearby can come and volunteer at our NGO—either for a longer period, a single session, or a workshop. Every bit of help is welcome and needed.

CUPBOARD MAKEOVER

What started as a simple organizing task turned into a beautiful transformation!

After tidying up our cupboard, our enthusiastic volunteers decided it deserved a complete makeover.

With its chipped paint and years of wear, the cupboard first got a fresh white finish, bringing it back to life.

But we didn't stop there—next came the fun part! The volunteers painted adorable animals on it, including a giraffe, monkey, elephant, and parrot, turning the plain cupboard into a colorful and cheerful artwork.

When the children walked in and saw the transformation, their eyes lit up with excitement and joy. They absolutely loved the playful paintings, and the cupboard has now become one of the happiest corners of our space.

BIRTHDAY TRADITION

We've started a lovely new tradition at Happy Home: celebrating birthdays in a special way!

To make sure no birthday is forgotten, we created a big, colorful birthday calendar where each child's special day is marked. It's already bringing lots of smiles as the kids look forward to seeing their names on it.

We've also introduced a birthday treasure box! On their birthday, each child gets to open the box and choose a small gift—something just for them. It's a simple way to make them feel seen, celebrated, and a little extra special on their day.

And on the teachers' birthdays, we always celebrate with cake—one big cake that's shared with everyone, so the whole group gets to enjoy the treat together.

HOLI CELEBRATION

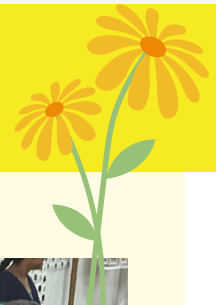

At Live Happy NGO, we celebrated Holi with joy, creativity, and plenty of color! Using leftover rangoli powder and sidewalk chalk, the children created beautiful, vibrant drawings outside. The courtyard came to life with their colorful patterns, hand-drawn designs, and smiling faces—it was a playful and artistic start to the celebration.

Inside, we continued the festive spirit with a special finger-painting activity using acrylics. Together, the children created a large tree, and each child added their fingerprint to the branches in bright colors. This meaningful piece now hangs proudly in Happy Home as a lasting memory of our celebration and the strong sense of community we share.

GAME OLYMPICS

With the final exams finally behind us, it was time to celebrate—and what better way than with a full tuition session dedicated to fun!

Our amazing volunteers organized a Game Olympics, turning the day into a playful and energetic event.

The children were divided into two teams, competing in a variety of exciting games. Each game gave them a chance to earn points for their team, building not just friendly competition but also teamwork and laughter along the way.

At the end of the session, the scores were tallied and we proudly announced a first and second place. To celebrate everyone's enthusiasm and effort, medals and candy were awarded to all participants—because every child truly gave their best and made the day unforgettable.

APRIL

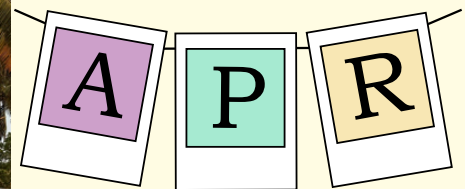

As summer approached, the number of children attending sessions began to decrease—but this gave us a unique opportunity to focus more deeply on those who continued to come. With fewer kids, we were able to identify individual learning gaps and offer more personalized support.

Instead of dividing the children by age or grade, we grouped them by their level of understanding, allowing us to repeat and strengthen the basics where needed. This approach helped ensure that every child is better prepared when school starts again in June.

April was also filled with action beyond the classroom. We organized a beach clean-up, teaching the children the importance of caring for the environment through hands-on experience.

Another highlight was our fun and engaging summer camp, packed with games, learning, and creativity.

REEFWATCH SESSION

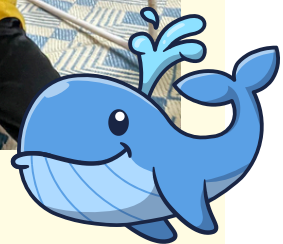

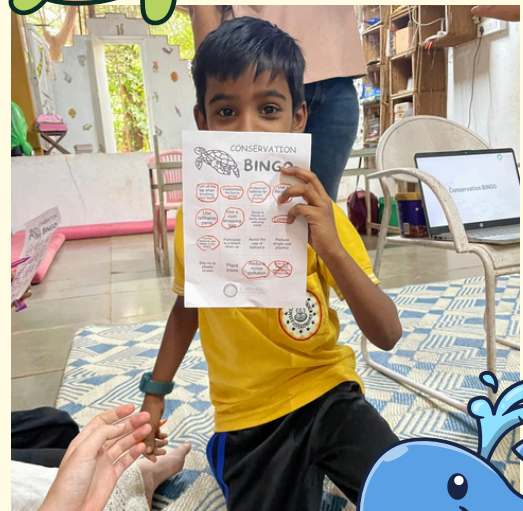

This month, we had the absolute joy of welcoming a group of inspiring guests from Reef Watch to Live Happy NGO. Their visit brought with it an eye-opening and impactful experience for our children through the Coastal Guardian Workshop—a session that combined fun, learning, and deep environmental awareness.

The workshop focused on a topic that affects us all: waste management and the harmful impact of plastic on our oceans. With engaging discussions and real-life examples, the children learned how everyday choices—like saying no to single-use plastic—can help protect marine life and keep our coasts clean.

One of the highlights of the session was a creative and educational Bingo game, specially designed to teach the children small but powerful actions they can take to care for the environment. From picking up litter to reusing materials, each Bingo square was a step toward becoming true Coastal Guardians.

What made the session truly special was the reflection at the end. Each child stood up and shared something they learned, along with a personal promise on how they plan to make a difference—whether it's by reducing plastic use, educating friends, or starting clean-up habits at home.

We are incredibly grateful to Reef Watch for their time, passion, and commitment to building a more sustainable future. Their session didn't just teach facts; it sparked a sense of responsibility and empowerment in our children that will ripple far beyond this one day.

THANK YOU GIFTS

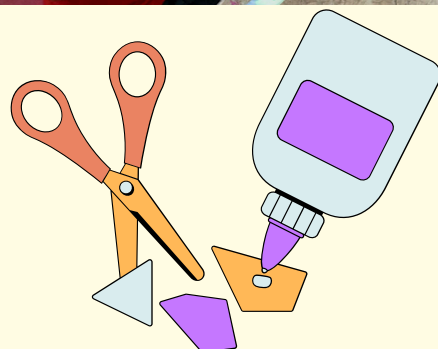

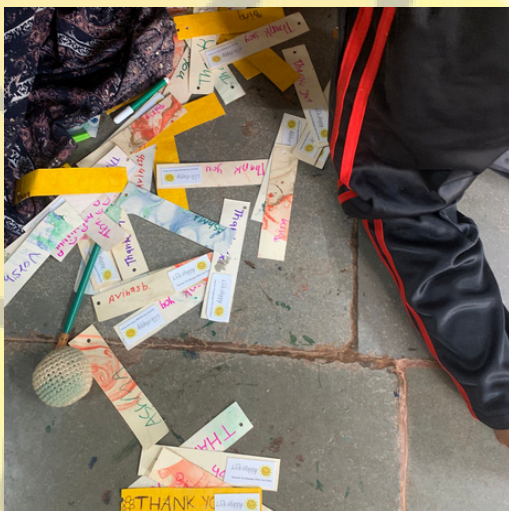

In preparation for our recent beach cleanup, the children took on a special project to show their appreciation for the volunteers who would be joining us.

A few days before the event, they gathered with paper, pens, and plenty of creativity to make individual thank-you bookmarks.

Each bookmark was handmade, with “Thank You” carefully written on it—sometimes in bold letters, other times decorated with small drawings or colorful patterns. The kids put genuine thought and effort into each one, wanting every volunteer to feel seen and valued.

The bookmarks were then handed out during the cleanup, a small but heartfelt gift from the children to those who gave their time to help. It was a beautiful way to involve the kids in the spirit of community and gratitude, and a reminder that even simple gestures can carry a lot of meaning.

BEACH CLEANUP

On 12th of April we had our first beach clean-up of the year at Bondir-beach, bringing together volunteers of all ages for a day of environmental action.

With support from the Anjuna Panchayat, who provided a bulldozer to help remove large debris and generously sponsored snacks and drinks, the team was able to tackle a wide range of trash scattered across the shore.

A highlight of this clean-up was the involvement of children from 2nd standard onwards. For a few of the kids, it was their first time at the beach — and for most of them their first encounter with the reality of marine litter. They showed great enthusiasm, helping pull out heavy bags, plastic, and clothing buried in the sand. As the day went on, the children became just as fascinated by the crabs and fish they discovered, adding a playful and educational element to the day.

The clean-up attracted both familiar and new volunteers, creating a lively and diverse group working side by side. Two photographers were on hand to document the event, capturing moments of teamwork, determination, and discovery.

By the end of the day, the Bondir beach was visibly cleaner, and the event had strengthened community bonds while raising awareness about the importance of caring for local beaches.

SUMMER CAMP

Our summer camp this April was nothing short of magical. Each day brought something new and exciting for the children at Live Happy NGO, and we're thrilled to share the highlights with you!

Day 1 – Kicking Off with Music

We took the kids of Assagao to Kator, an important piece of our village's living heritage. It was more than a visit—it was a way to help them experience their own culture, not just hear about it. Together with Carlos, we played the Ghumot, the traditional Goan drum, and its rhythms echoed through the land, waking up something deep within us all.

Day 2 – Sports Day Fun & Ice Cream

A high-energy football session by Forca Goa Foundation with Coach Som & Coach Nora had our kids running, playing, and bonding on the Union High School Assagao grounds. The day wrapped up on a sweet note with delicious handcrafted ice creams from Ondo Gelato Ashvem, served by the owner Angand himself. The joy on the kids' faces said it all!

Day 3 – Craft, Color & Parachute Games

We started off with Vishakha teaching the kids to make paper bags —so creative! Then we played a fun ball game indoors before heading out to the big hit of the day: the rainbow parachute. The kids had an absolute blast all around!

Day 4 – Fruit Salads & Scratch Art

Cooking and art collided on Day 4 with a fruit salad workshop led by Joel Gracias. Five teams chopped, mixed, and plated delicious, healthy creations. Later, the children explored scratch art—layering colors, covering them in black crayon, and etching out stunning designs with toothpicks.

Day 5 – Creativity, Crowns & Celebration

On the final day, the kids helped upcycle benches with fingerprint flowers, shapes, and landscapes, guided by artists Utkarsh and Sudharsha. We ended the week with a festive celebration—crowning our King, Queen, and Group of the Week, and distributing goodie bags and certificates to every child.

A huge thank you to all the volunteers, partners, and special guests who helped make this camp such a meaningful and magical experience.

SUMMER CAMP

MAY

May was a month full of meaningful moments and steady progress. In our learning sessions, we focused on revisiting the basics to make sure everyone had a strong foundation. It was wonderful to see their confidence grow as they began to understand and enjoy the material more deeply.

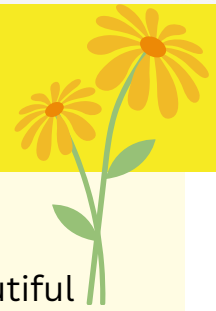

For Mother's Day, the children poured their hearts into crafting beautiful, handmade cards. Each card was unique and personal, filled with drawings, kind words, and lots of love. It was a lovely way for the kids to express their appreciation and bring a smile to their mothers' faces.

As the first rains arrived, we also turned our attention to making sure every child was prepared for the changing weather. Thanks to the generosity of our supporters, we were able to collect enough donations to provide each child with a raincoat and an umbrella. Seeing the kids stay dry and comfortable on their way to and from class was a reminder of how impactful even simple acts of care can be.

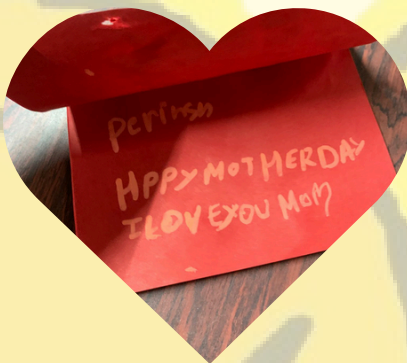

MOTHERS DAY

For Mother's Day, we embraced creativity and love by crafting beautiful handmade cards for the children to take home and give to their mothers or caregivers. Using Struktura Art as inspiration—or simply letting their imagination run wild—the kids poured their hearts into each card. The results were as unique and heartfelt as the people they were made for. It was a simple, joyful way to celebrate the special bond between children and their mums.

RAINCOAT DONATION

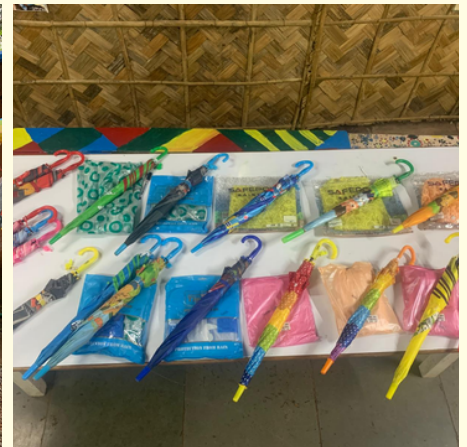

Last week, we had a very special moment at Live Happy—our children were surprised with brand new raincoats, just in time for the monsoon season! Thanks to the generous support of our kind donors, each child received a colorful, high-quality raincoat to help keep them dry and comfortable on rainy days.

The excitement in their eyes and the big smiles on their faces said it all. For many of them, it was their first time owning a raincoat, and they couldn't wait to try them on. It was more than just a practical gift—it was a gesture of care and love that truly touched their hearts.

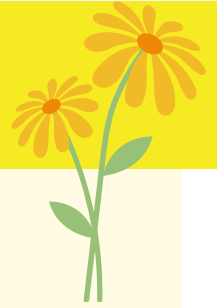

We're incredibly grateful to everyone who contributed to this thoughtful donation. Your kindness made a real difference and turned an ordinary Friday into a day full of joy and gratitude.

Thank you for standing with us and for helping make rainy days brighter for our little ones!

JUNE

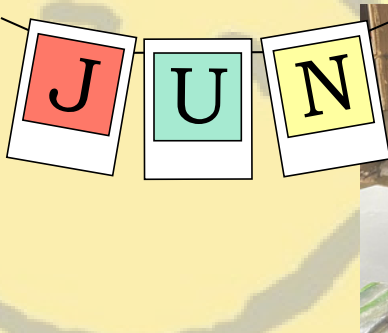

During June, many exciting projects took place at our Happy Home!

It all began with a visit from Project Tres, who showed our kids how to craft beautiful keychains using beads and shells.

In June, we also celebrated Yoga Day — and of course, our NGO had to take part! We believe that only a relaxed and balanced mind can be truly happy. To mark the day, we hosted an extra-long yoga session for our kids, helping them stretch, breathe, and find a moment of peace within themselves.

Another big milestone was the launch of our Live Happy Library!

Every Thursday, the children can now choose one book from our bookshelf to take home for the week. The following week, they can either borrow the same book again or exchange it for a new one. Through this, we want to make sure our kids are regularly exposed to literature and can dive into the wonderful world of books and stories.

PROJECT TREES

Right at the beginning of June, we were visited by Fahrida and her beautiful organisation, Project Tres.

She came along with four wonderful ladies, bringing lots of colourful and amazing craft materials.

The kids sat down with the ladies, and patiently they began explaining how to make beautiful keychains.

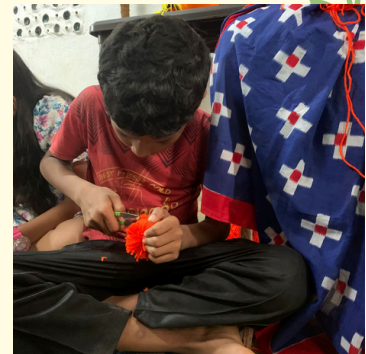

The children were very excited, carefully placing beads and looking for their favourite colours.

In the end, each one had a unique keychain they were truly proud of. Most of the kids didn't want to stop – they were having so much fun!

This day was more than just a craft session – it was a beautiful exchange.

It showed how much children can learn from older people, and how much joy and inspiration they can give in return.

Both sides shared, learned, and smiled together – a truly special moment for everyone involved.

YOGA DAY

At our NGO, we believe that a happy child needs more than just learning — they need a calm and balanced mind too. That's why we took part in Yoga Day!

Yoga helps our kids relax, focus, and feel good in their bodies. It's a simple but powerful way to care for their well-being. Through this, we want them to learn that true happiness starts from within.

SÃO JOÃO CELEBRATION

We celebrated São João at our NGO with lots of joy and creativity. The kids made beautiful kopel (flower crowns) using fresh flowers and green plants. They were free to choose whatever materials they liked, and we happily assisted them in creating their very own crowns. It was such a fun and hands-on experience for everyone.
